

THIS WEEK'S TOPIC:

FREQUENCY + JEZDIT/CHODIT

TO GO = CHODIT, JEZDIT

What's the difference? Before using it in Czech, you need to realize whether you are going on foot, or you are using some means of transport.

CHODIT

- to go on foot, to walk (repeatedly)
- examples:

Každý den chodím na procházku. = I go for a walk every day.

Chodíš často do fitka/do posilovny? = Do you often go to the gym.

Jana chodí do práce od pondělí do čtvrtka. V pátek pracuje doma. = Jana (= Jane) goes to work from Monday to Thursday (every week). She works at home on Fridays.

Nechodíme často do kina. = We don't go to the cinema often.

Jak často chodíte nakupovat? = How often do you go shopping?

Kam nikdy nechodí? = Where do they never go?

JEZDIT

- to go by means of transport (eg. by bus, train, tram, taxi,...) (repeatedly)
- examples:

Jezdím domů každý víkend. = I go home every weekend.

Kdy jezdíš obvykle na dovolenou? = When do you usually go on holiday?

Jana nejezdí často vlakem, protože má auto. = Jana (= Jane) Jana doesn't take (= go by) the train often because she has a car.

V zimě jezdíme někdy na hory. = In winter we sometimes go to the mountains.

Jak často jezdíte do zahraničí? = How often do you go abroad? (formal/group of people)

Nikdy nejezdí taxíkem*, chodí často pěšky nebo jezdí autobusem. = They never take a taxi, they often walk or take the bus.

Jít x chodit

Ted' jdu do práce. x Chodím do práce každý den pěšky, nejedním autobusem.

Jet x jezdit

Ted' jedeme do Prahy. Jedeme vlakem. Obvykle jezdíme autem. Ted' je ale auto v servisu, tak musíme jet vlakem.
